View attempts statistics
Attempts statistics show you how students fared on each question. The overall quality of a test depends on the quality of the individual questions. Use these statistics to determine if content was unclear or questions were misinterpreted.

To View this report:

1. From the Grade Center, navigate to a test or survey's column.
2. Access the column's menu and select Attempts Statistics. The results display on the Statistics page.

The information provided includes these:

- Average score for each question
- Number of graded student attempts
- Number of unanswered responses
- Distribution of student responses for each question

Each possible answer is shown with a percentage or response rate. For a Multiple Choice question, a high response rate to a particular incorrect answer may indicate a common misconception among students. Or, you might have chosen the incorrect answer when you created the question.
